The chairman of the meeting will be County Clerk E. B. Hinman. The dinner will be prepared and served by the ladies of the Redwood City Methodist church.

Representatives are expected at this meeting from all communities between Burlingame and Palo Alto as well as city and county officers from all parts of the county.

Burlingame Woman Sues for Divorce

Charging her husband with mental cruelty, Mrs. Eleanor Malzkuhn has filed suit in the superior court of this county against Erich Malzkuhn. The couple was married in 1921 and reside in Burlingame. They have an adopted child nine years of age and community property valued at $7000. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Jas T. O'Keefe.

BEATRICE, Neb., (UP)—Caterpillars chewing the leaves from the walnut tree behind Dr. C. A. Bradley's home here smelled his wife's dinner cooking. They attacked the kitchen and swarmed over the screen door. Chemicals and fire were necessary to turn back the charge.

San Carlos Boys Begin Activities In Pioneer Club

The Forty-Niner Pioneers of San Carlos started off their third year of activity at their meeting on Tuesday evening at the Community church. Roy A. Hohberger, the local secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, told briefly of the competitive activities in the Y. M. C. A. Californiad and the leagues. After each boy had been enrolled there was a brief discussion on "How a Boy Can Serve His Community."

The club expects to have its first football game on Friday afternoon, October 9th. The boys of this club range from 13 to 17 years of age, most of whom have been members of the Cheyenne Friendly Indians. More than fifty percent of the boys in this group have been in clubs under the Y. M. C. A. programs for six years.

Stimson Endeavors to Prevent Japan - China Break in Orient

Cessation of Hostilities Urged by United States Through Secretary of State; Sanctions Move Taken Earlier By League of Nations; Sends Similiar Notes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—(UP)—Secretary of State Stimson revealed late today that he had urged Japan and China to cease hostilities in Manchuria and to withdraw from the present "situation of danger."

At the same time, the Secretary made public a note to the League of Nations expressing this country's "whole-hearted sympathy" with the League's efforts to establish peace in Manchuria. He promised the United States would send Japan and China notes "along similar lines to those sent by the League.

The Geneva body previously had passed resolutions asking that Japan and China be importuned to cease hostilities in Manchuria and to withdraw troops from the military zone.

Stimson's appeal to cease hostilities was made to Japan and China through their respective envoys here, Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi and Charge D'Affaires Yung Kwai. The Secretary expressed hope that the two countries would be able to settle their difficulties without intervention by other powers.

In agreeing to dispatch notes to Japan and China "similar" to those sent by the League, rather than joining in the League's action Stimson was believed to be avoiding the charge that the United States was participating directly in League political affairs.

The Secretary's note to the League was prompted by a League resolution to inform the United States of its action regarding the Manchurian quarrel. This was viewed here as an open bid for Washington's participation.

The note to the League follows:

"I have received from the American Minister at Berne a copy of the resoultion of the council of the League of Nations which you transmitted to him.

"I have noted the two parts of this resolution and the fact that they have been embodied in a note which you have addressed to the governments of Japan and China.

"I assure you that the government of the United States is in wholehearted sympathy with the attitude of the League of Nations as expressed in the council's resolution and will dispatch to Japan and China notes along similar lines.

"I have already urged cessation of hostilities and withdrawal from the present situation of danger and will continue earnestly to work for the restoration of peace."

The League Council's resolutions contained two salient points.

(1) Appeal to China and Japan to abstain from acts liable to aggraviate the Manchurian situation or a prejudiced settlement of it.

(2) To consult with Chinese and Japanese representatives to seek means to permit the two countries to withdraw their troops without imperilling lives or property.

State department officials said they did not know when the notes to Japan and China would go forward. They were likewise ignorant of whether the documents would invoke the Kellogg anti-war pact, to which both China and Japan are signatories.

P. G. & E. Men Face Charges Of Violating Liquor Laws

Transformers Installed for Use with Still Held to be Conspiracy

The liability of a public service corporation which supplies electricity used in the manufacture of liquor to prosecution for violation of the national prohibition laws, will be tested in the federal courts as the result of the arrest of T. M. Michael, service salesman for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company here, and Edward S. Ford, construction foreman of the same company. Ford and Michael were indicted by a federal grand jury and charged with conspiricy.

The indictment of the two men is the result of a raid made by federal officers on a private home in the Belle Monti tract on June 4, when five persons were arrested and a large electrically operated still was seized. The equipment seized by the federal officers is said to have been valued at $40,000. Arrsted at the house and charged with possession of a still and also with operating a still were Lluis Cesini, Jack S. Barray, Peter Dardando, William Yount and George R. Hutchinson.

It was charged before the federal grand jury that three large transformers valued at $1200 each had been installed at the house. These transformers, it was stated would never be installed for household use, and it was charged that the company men knew what use was to be made of the current at the time the equipment was installed.

The two P. G. & E. men will be defended by the legal department of the electrical company. It was stated by company officials that the action of the government in arresting employees because of the use made of current after it was delivered to the customer was unprecedented.

At the time of the raid on the house the prohibition agents in addition to the still seized 35 one-gallon tins of alcohol, 500 gallons of mash, and 150 gallons of alcohol in process of manufacture.

Murder Charge Filed Against Muratore For Nurse's Death

Alleged Accomplice Charged With Second Degree Murder

A formal charge of murder was placed against Mario Muratore in San Francisco on Wednesday in conection with the death of Mrs. Anita Lund, whose body was found thrown beside the road at Salada Beach in this county two weeks ago. The charge was sworn to before Municipal Judge Alfred J. Fritz by Inspector Allen McGinn of the San Francisco police.

Mrs. Lund was killed as the result of an illegal operation which police of San Francisco claim was performed in the basement of Muratore's house in San Francisco. Following the finding of her almost-nude body at Salada Beach, Muratore was arrested in San Francisco and brought to the county jail here. When it was established that the death of Mrs. Lund was in San Francisco, and that she was dead when brought into this county, he was returned to San Francisco to face charges in that county.

The persons who are declared by police to have been parties to the operation, "Dr." Andrew Mareck and Mrs. Mareck, were also taken into custody in San Francisco Mareck is charged with second degree murder, his wife was released

Mrs Lund's body was found by picknickers near the road at Salada Beach, and was for some time unidentified It was thought at first that the woman had been murdered by having been beaten over the head It was determined by examination, however, that the real cause of death was a poorly performed illegal operation, and that bruises about the head and face had been put there after she was dead, evidently with the intention of giving the impression that the woman had been beaten to death, and thus covering up the real cause of her demise The injuries to the head were found to have been insufficient to have caused death, being merely superficial wounds

Mrs Lund was identified by her mother and sister at the undertaking parlors at Daly City She was found to have been a nurse at the Laguna Honda home in San Francisco Muratore was arrested on suspicion when it was found that he was her closet associate and was the last person known to have been with her He is a janitor in a San Francisco office building

Flood Decision Expected from Buck Tomorrow

Action of Judge Toward New Trial to Determine Appeal Action

The decision of Judge Buck upon the motion of Attorney John Taaffe for a new trial in the will contest being waged by Mrs. Constance May Gavin for a portion of the fortune left by the late James Flood, is expected to be ready tomorrow. At that time Judge Buck will make known his attitude on the question of whether or not the case may be retried in his court or whether it must be taken on appeal to the state supreme court.

The motion was argued Monday before Judge Buck. Mrs. Gavin was represented by John Taaffe and by Maxwell McNutt; representing the recognized Flood heirs were Garett McEnerney, Theodore Roche, Hall C. Ross, Andrew Burke and J. J. Barrett.

It was the contention of Taaffe that the directed verdict ordered by Judge Buck in the former trial of the Flood will contest was not the proceedure contempleted in the law, and he stated that if Judge Buck had considered the evidence produced to be insufficient he should have granted a non-suit. A non-suit he stated, would have allowed Mrs. Gavin to have produced evidence, if possible, to strengthen her case, whereas a directed verdict placed a bar, to her action which could not be removed.

The contentions of Taaffe were opposed by Roche, who claimed that the action of Judge Buck in directing a verdict was justified. Long lists of authorities were submitted to the judge by attorneys for both sides.

Bids Received By Government For Sunnyvale Dirigible Base

Ohio Firm Tenders Lowest Bid For Building Hangar For Dirigible

The United States Navy Department at Washington received 300 bids for the construction of the dirigible hangar at the Sunnyvale air base. Bids for the giant structure were opened Wednesday, the lowest bid being that of the Mt. Vernon Bridge Company of Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

The bid was for construction of the entire superstructure, exclusive of foundations. Estimates on the work ran between $1,500,000 and $1,750,000.

Other low bidders for the hangar superstructures were: The Clinton Construction Co., San Francisco, $1718,000 and the Dinwiddie Construction Co., San Francisco, $1,806,000.

The hangar will be 1138 feet long, 310 feet wide and 198 feet in height, second in size only to the hangar of the Zeppelin Corp., at Akron, O. It will be the largest unit of the $5,000,000 base.

The navy had estimated that between $1,500,000 and $1,750,000 would be required or the work on which the two firms bid $1,514,981. The bids were received on four contracts. One was for the grading, another for the entire hangar superstructure, exclusive of foundations, and two others for the superstructure. These last two were divided into two jobs, the first including the structural steel work, main doors and door operating machinery and the second covering curtain walls, rooing, siding, windows and other incidental work.

The hangar will be 1138 feet long, 310 feet wide and 198 feet high, or the size of an eighteen-story building covering three city blocks. The total cost of the entire project was authorized by Congress at $5,000,000. The last Congress authorized the expenditure of $2,200,000 to begin construction and an additional $1,800,000 was authorized.

Jones Held to Superior Court For Jail Break

Alleged To Have Climbed Over Jail Wall; Rearrested In Los Angeles

E. John Lloyd Jones was held to answer to the superior court on a charge of jail breaking following a hearing Wednesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe.

Jones, who was sentenced to serve 250 days in the county jail in this city by Police Judge Albert Mansfield of San Carlos, February 5 last on charges of possession and transportation of liquor and of reckless driving, escaped from the jail, it is alleged, on August 8 and was arrested several weeks later in Los Angeles, where he had been taken into custody on a charge of the theft of an automobile. He was returned to the county jail here on September 2.

Miss Flo Kreiss, matron of the Detention Home, which adjoins the jail on Middlefield road, was one of the witnesses at the preliminary trial Wednesday and she testified that she saw Jones jump over the fence separating the two buildings on the evening of August 8 and make his getaway. Other witnesses at the trial were Judge Mansfield and Undersheriff Lawrence Nieri.

Jones' attorney failed to appear from San Francisco for the hearing and he acted as his own council.

Bail was set by Judge McAuliffe at $2500 cash or $5000 bond.

Animal Kindergarten Popular

BERLIN, (UP) — The "animal kindergarten" of the Berlin Zoo draws hundreds of visitors daily. Here tiny lions, bears, leopards and hyenas tumble about indiscriminately without regard for the crowds of thrilled children. Some of the cubs have become quite blase before the camera, due to the frequency with which children demand to be photographed with them.

HOUSING PROBLEM FOR COUNTY OFFICERS AT CRT. HOUSE DISCUSSED AT SPECIAL MEETING

Use of Old Jail as Detention Home and Present Detention Home for County Offices Favored by Board

ARCHITECT TO PREPARE PLANS

District Attorney and Superintendent of Schools To Be Moved

The board of supervisors held a special meeting Wednesday morning fo the purpose of trying to solve the housing problem at the court house. With the supervisors' chambers turned into a superior court room and the possibilities of the county fathers being without a meeting place, on account of the crowded condition of the two court calendars, the board has been confronted with the problem of finding some other place to hold their sessions.

Acting on the suggestion of Superior Judge Buck, the board has been considering the plan of remodeling the old county jail on Spring street and moving the office of County Surveyor James S. James there, using his present offices for the chambers of Judge Swart. At the meeting Wednesday James sternuously opposed this plan, pointing out that his office was closely allied with the recorder's, assessor's, auditor's and county clerk's and that it would be necessary for him to be in constant touch with these offices.

Judge Swart in discussing the matter with the board Wednesday said he could get along nicely with the supervisor's room for his court and the purchasing agent's office for his chambers until some more permanent arrangements were made. He asked that a door be cut through from his chambers to the law library.

Architect W. H. Toepke was present at the meeting and offered the suggestion that a temporary building be erected in the rear of the court house to help solve the housing problem. Other plans were discussed, including using the Daniel R. Stafford building (old postoffice) on Broadway.

The board apparently was not making very much headway with the problem until County Probation Officer Robinson offered the suggestion that the old county jail be turned into a permanent detention home, leaving the present detention home on Middlefield road available for housing several of the county officials. This plan met with the approval of the entire board, and Architect Toepke was instructed to submit estimates on the following work:

Remodeling of the old jail building; remodeling of the Juvenile home with the thought of moving the offices of District Attorney and county superintendent of schools into that building; remodeling of the district attorney's and school superintendent's offices and make them into a court room.

If these plans are carried out County Surveyor James will be allowed to remain in his present quarters. Toepke will submit his plans and estimates at a special meeting of the board next Monday.

Roosevelt Seen as Leader in Democratic Presidential Hope

All Presidential Prospects in Party's Ranks at Present Are Considered Either as Wet or As Favoring Modification Of Eighteenth Amendment

By CHARLES M. McCANN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—(UP)—Authoritative democratic opinion places the present standing of the party's leading presidential possibilities as follows:

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Newton D. Baker of Ohio, war-time Secretary of War.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

Alfred E. Smith, democratic candidate against Herbert Hoover in 1928, is said not to be in the running, despite his public statements that he will not commit himself one way or the other.

Baker, according to his friends, will not be an avowed candidate and will not permit his name to go before the Ohio presidential primary next year.

But interest in his candidacy is growing and there is a strong feeling that, it will continue to grow. Whether it will increase, despite his own inactivity, to proportions that will threaten Roosevelt at the convenion opening is regarded as one of the important questions of the presidential campaign.

Roosevelt got off to a flying start. It is said that undoubtedly he is far ahead of the field at present. So far ahead, some experts hold, that he made himself a clear if not actually vulnerable target for the rest to concentrate against in the pre-convention campaign.

It is interesting in view of the light wine and beer platform suggested this week by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, that Roosevelt, Baker and Ritchie all are listed as wets.

Roosevelt has avoided a strong antiprohibition stand. Baker is firmly for moderation of the present laws. Ritchie is out and out wet.

Roosevelt's views on prohibition, power and other issues are not poular with some factions of the party. It is gossiped that Smith really would prefer Baker to Roosevelt, that if feasible he would like to support Baker, but that if necessary to avoid a convention fight he might even nominate Roosevelt provided the platform and an equivocal expression from Roosevelt were satisfactory to him.

Smith is regarded as a campaign power. He is said to feel that in the light of the present unsettled conditions throughout the world be no time to inject a further contentious issue, such as religion, into a presidential campaign. It is problematical to whom he will lend support, but it is held he will aim, probably accurately, at helping or hindering aspiring candidates.

Owen D. Young, strong combination of a democrat and a seven-billion-dollar industrial chief, is held by many experts to be out of the picture. For one reason he has discouraged talk of his own candidacy even more than Baker; for another his prominence in industry and finance and his views on industrialized democracy are unpopular with many democrats.

Campaigning for Better Business

There are a certain number of merchants throughout the United States for whom the year 1931 will prove to have been a year of better business and bigger profits. Not many of them, perhaps, but certainly some, who have contrived to use, ingenuity, modern methods and elbow grease to make it so,

John T. Flynn, business author and observer, has just been in Washington at the conclusion of an extended tour, during which he visited, at the request of Collier's Weekly, successful merchants in many lines of business, located in every section of the country. The report of his investigations, according to government officials who have talked with him is an inspiring and momentous story of achievement.

"I found examples of prosperous merchants in almost every community I visited," says Mr. Flynn. "They are men who did better business in 1930 than in 1929 and who are doing a better business now in 1931 than they did in 1930.

"But I found some other things besides. I found, for instance, that fair and finicky lady, Mrs. Consumer, is sitting on top of the world. She is buying dresses for $4.75 that cost $8 a year ago, stockings that used to cost $1.65 for a dollar, and that beautiful overstuffed chair that she longed for at $125 is now crying for her to buy it at $75. A wave of slashed prices is sweeping over the country like grasshopper hordes over Nebraska.

"Tons of red paint have been consumed marking down old prices. You can go into the stock market and help your self to assets for nothing. If you have the money you can buy the whole United States Steel Corporation for less than the sum at which its railroad subsidiaries are valued. You can buy Mellons' Gulf Oil Company for $300,000,000, which is a sum less than the company spent on improvements in 1929. Always provided, of course, that the sensible people who own the stocks would be foolish enough to sell at present price.

"The same tendency is indicated in retail trade. Taking losses fearlessly seems to have been the key to the successful negotiation of the present situation by sound merchants everywhere. Thrifty shoppers are lifting this country out of its depression. Smart merchants are lowering prices to galvanize these thrifty shoppers into life."

The Editorial Circuit Rider

(A symposium of editorial comment from California Newspapers.)
By MELVIN LORD

What can California do about the roadside "billboard" menace?

While newspapers of the state admit the perplexity of the problem, there are a few which offer concrete suggestions. In the main, however, it is considered a question to be answered only by concerted public opinion.

"The campaign against the roadside billboard has been in operation for many years now," The Ontario Report points out. "But sometimes a weary citizen is compelled to wonder if anything but axes and dynamite will rid the highways of these commercialized destroyers."

In concluding The Report believes the only remedy is to "keep harping on the subject until every motorist takes each billboard as a personal insult. That might get results and save the scenery."

The Evening Pajaronian calls attention to the difficulty of obtaining passage of necessary legislation to control the billboards when it considers the report of the legislative billboard committee on the preservation of our scenic beauty as "little short of a farce," and practically a "whitewash" for the road signs.

It is a discouraging problem in the opinion of The Merced Sun-Star to see "beautiful Mt. Shasta rising above a long row of blatant billboards" and "billboards erected at dangerous curves where there should be nothing to distract the attention of the motorist from the roadway."

The legislative committee is again taken to task by the Santa Barbara Press with the comment:

Either the legislators have very little regard for some of these destroyers of scenic beauty, or their eyes were dimmed by tears of sympathy for the poor billboard company."

While the Santa Barbara News suggests a tax on billboards as a relief from increased taxes against the motorist, the proposal probably would work directly as a control of the indiscriminate erection of signs.

The News points out that New Jersey levies a tax of 3 cents a square foot per year on billboards.

"There are thousands of billboards in California, all of them valueless if they were not placed along the highways, which the taxpayers build with their own money. Thus, when the public creates the value of a billboard location it also has the right to insist on sign owners paying some price for receiving the subsequent benefits of their investment."

Potential Battlefields

The little argument between China and Japan about Manchuria may continue to be just what it is now, an argument between China and Japan about Manchuria. It may, however, and this requires little stretch of the imagination, become the match which will ignite the gun powder of the Orient, and gun powder, after all, was an invention of the Orient.

It would have required a magical foresight in 1914 to have linked the shooting of an Austrian duke of whom nobody had ever heard by an equally obscure Serb, with millions of Yanks crossing the Atlantic; meatless days, flour substitutes, war songs, and all the devastation which followed in its wake. It takes less strain of the imagination to see the Soviet Russia siding in with China, and Soviet emisaries stirring up hatred of Japan in that country. Russia still finds Korea a thorn in her side, and Japan is blamed for that particular thorn.

With Russia accounted for there would be endless complications, and in the end another World War would not be out of the question. And a World War with its roots in the Orient would put the last war into the shade.

The war in Europe brought to the surface smoldering hatreds and tribal wars apparently forgotten for years, even hundreds of years. A similar conflict in the East would stir the pot of racial animosities which can find no counterpart in Occidental life. Manchu and Tarter, Kurd and Afgan, Malay and Chinese, all harbor their own particular malice. Then, too, the religious hatreds of the East would find an outlet in any such struggle. The Mohammedans of Afganistan are only now held from pouring down into India for a religious extermination of the Hindus by the force of the British protectorate. The caste system, too, during thousands of years, has fomented a class hatred without parallel in the west. These forces unleashed would form a clataclism which would shake the world.

We can well hope that the present difficulty is settled without force of arms.

Students Encouraged to Return to School

The President's Emergency Committee for Employment is receiving encouraging reports from nearly all the states concerning activities being carried on to assist students to continue their school attendance.

"Many states report comprehensive plans in which various clubs and other organizations are co-operating to insure a full attendance in educational institutions," it is stated by the acting chairman of the committee.

Dr. Charles W. Taylor, head of the Department of Public Instruction of Nebraska, in a letter to the President's committee said:

"We are wholly in sympathy with the point of view, namely, that there never was a better time for persons to more adequately prepare themselves to assume the responsibility of citizenship than just now. This office has taken the position in answer to many inquiries, and in our public statements and addresses we have, I think, without exception been calling attention of readers and hearers to the importance of continuing their educational advancement in preparation for the assumption of greater responsibilities."

Dr. N. D. Showalter, state superintendent for Washington, reports:

"Concerning your inquiry, will say that we have several forces at work in this state undertaking to provide continued school facilities for young people. Each of our institutions of higher learning has established student loan funds. Numerous student loan funds have been instituted by public service organizations, such as the Parent-Teachers' Association, the Masons, the Kiwanis Clubs, etc. Organizations of the latter type provide for worthy students in the secondary schools, or in an institution of higher learning."

A late release states that, in cooperation with the program of the President's relief commission, the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department issued a statement urging young people to remain in school during the unemployment crisis.

Despite the shortage of jobs, the report declares that in 23 states and 40 cities more than 103,000 children between 14 and 15 years of age received certificates permitting them to leave school for work during 1930.

"These 103,000 children entered jobs which might have been available for older persons without employment, had the children remained in school." No statement appears to show how many of these are the necessary support of others.

The report adds, "Comparatively few of the children whose school ties are once broken go back to school. Reduction of child labor, with its corollary, extended education, is urged, not merely as an aid to the unemployment situation, but because of the advantages to boys and girls, themselves."

He who harbors a personal grudge fills his mind with boundless troubles.—W. A. Engle.

The worst is past. Soon many suggestions to relieve depression will be moth-balled for future reference.

Says a Wall Street publication; "Not in the history of industry have corporations had such an abundance of idle money." Why not put it to work?

The First National Bank of Boston, in the language of economists, tacitly admits that low wages are the cause of depression in business.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convising Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Thecount sends for Constance's aunt, stying that she will know her own niece. The old lady, on arriving, is not told what has happened, and she accepts Sheila without question.

The result is that the Count, Harry and the Baronne agree that Sheila is temporarily unbalanced.

Chapter No. 36—

Constance meanwhile is in London.

She learns that Harry is in Paris She prepares to leave for Paris.

But is run down by a taxi and seriously injured.

He prepares to go to London.

Dr. Mac decides to take her home.

Suddenly her memory returns.

Chapter 49—

Then she sees Dr. Mac, who is heart-broken because she does not know him.

"Won't You Explain, Please?"

When Constance awakened the next morning after a long, restful sleep, the sun was streaming in at the windows, and, on a table beside her bed, was a vase filled with roses. Her cry of pleasure brought the nurse into the room.

"Why — who — who sent them?" asked Constance. "Give them to me, please?"

The nurse took the roses from the vase and handed them to Constance. "Here's the card that came with them," she said, taking a little envelop from her pocket.

"The beautiful, beautiful things," exclaimed Constance. Then she took the envelop from the nurse and opened it. The glow in her face faded as she read: "I hope these find you very much better — Malcolm."

"Malcolm — Malcolm," she repeated. "Oh, nurse, you've given me the flowers that were intended for some one else."

"No, indeed," returned the nurse, smiling. "They are yours, Dr. Baxter sent them."

"Dr. Baxter?" said Constance. "Who is Dr. Baxter?"

The nurse looked at her patient in a queer, puzzled way. "Is this never going to clear up?" she was asking herself, as she recalled the scene of the previous night. Aloud, she said:

"Dr. Baxter? Why he's your friend from America. He was here last night, but you didn't know him. Perhaps you recall it now?"

Constance looked vague and shook her head. Then she looked about the room. "Where am I?" she asked sharply. "What day is it? Have I been ill?" Suddenly she seemed to realize that her surroundings were unfamiliar. She stared curiously at her hands. They were very thin and white. She raised them to her face, to her head With a quick movement, she threw back the covers and would have sprung from the bed, had not the nurse restrained her.

"Don't you dare stop me," she cried fiercely, resisting with all her strength the efforts of the nurse to force her gently back upon her pillows.

"You must remain quietly in bed until the doctor gives you permission to get up," said the nurse, but Constance tossed from side to side, and then sat up with a jerk. A stab of pain seemed to make her senses reel, and she put her hands to her head as she collopsed in the nurse's arms. The nurse laid her down and ran to the door.

"Telephone at once to Dr. Gibbons," she said to an orderly, who was passing through the hall. "Try his home."

Then she went back to Constance. "Poor child," she murmured, for Constance's face was white and drawn with pain and her breathing was labored, "you're still far from well."

But, when Dr. Gibbons arrived, Constance was able to talk to him, although all the energy she had shown earlier in the morning had vanished.

"Please tell me what has happened," she said, with pathetic eagerness. "I remember being hurt, just as I was preparing to fly to Paris, and —"

"You recall that clearly?" asked the doctor. "And the events preceding the accident?"

"Of course," returned Constance. "It is what has happened since the accident that ——"

"Well," said Dr. Gibbons, "in the five weeks you have been here——"

"Five weeks!" Constance gasped. "Five weeks! Oh, how terrible." Her memory, so long dormant, became vividly alive. Sheila Allen! What had happened to her? And Harry! Where was he?

"Tell me," she said faintly, "did a young man — Mr. Edmonds — call at the hospital?"

"Not to my knowledge and I'm sure I'd have been told of it if he had," replied Dr. Gibbons. "We had a hard time getting in touch with any one who knows you but finally we located Dr. Malcolm Baxter. He came to London at once and is still here. In fact he had arranged to take you back to America thinking that once— familiar faces and scenes would restore your memory, when the sight and sound of an airplane did exactly that thing."

"How curious," murmured Constance. "I remember that. But it's all hazy. Like a dream. When I heard the roar of that plane, it seemed to take me back to the day on which I planned to fly to Paris .... But who is Dr. Baxter? Is he the man who came to my room last night, just as I was waking?"

"Yes. And he was most distressed that you didn't seem to remember him at the moment, Miss Allen."

Constance stared at the doctor as if she was not sure that she had heard aright. "What did you call me?" she asked. "Miss Allen?"

"Naturally," said Dr. Gibbons.

"But that's not my name.'

"Not your name? Did you obtain your passport under a false name?"

Dr. Gibbon's manner was so stern as he asked the latter question that Constance made no answer. She felt instinctively that she was on dangerous ground.

"I'm very tired," she said plaintively, fighting for time. "Perhaps I'd better just rest now."

Dr. Gibbons eyed her curiously, but he rose to go. "Dr. Baxter will be here shortly," he said. "I telephoned him. He'll want to see you. Do you feel up to it?"

Constance hesitated for a moment. Her mind was now perfectly clear and working rapidly. If this Dr. Baxter was a friend of Sheila Allen's she would be reasonably safe in telling him how she had met Sheila, how Sheila had agreed to impersonate her in Paris, how she herself had taken Sheila's luggage and passport.

"Of course, I want to see Dr. Baxter," she said, with her most winning smile. "There are a great many things that I want to tell him."

And so, when Dr. Mac entered Constance's room an hour later, he was astounded to find her sitting in an easy-chair, waiting for him.

Before he could utter a word, she had said: "Please listen to me carefully, because you must help me — and Shiela. You think I'm Sheila Allen. But I'm not. I only look like her. She's been impersonating me in Paris I thought it would be for just a few days but weeks have passed and Heaven only knows what has happened to her."

"But who — what — who are you?" stammered Dr. Mac, wide-eyed and incredulous. "Won't you explain please?"

And Constance poured out a story that made him gasp.

"And Sheila — is she still in Paris?" he asked.

"I don't know but you must go there at once and try to find her."

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO Cal. Sept. 24—(UP)—A preview of the Rolph vs. Merriam campaign for governor in 1934 may be seen in the unemployment and water conservation activities now going on in California.

Governor Rolph who is going to be a candidate for re-election unless all signs are wrong realizes that a successful water development program will be the biggest achievement in his administration. It would also go a long way toward his re-election. So here's what has happened.

The state legislature passed an act calling for continuance of the legislative water committee which was to be named by Lieutenant-Governor Frank F. Merriam and Speaker Edgar C. Levey. The administration also put through a bill setting up a "citizens" water committee which Governor Rolph appointed. It turned out to be a large committee with members from every county in the state.

While there was much talk and little action on the unemployment crisis sure to confront the state this winter Lieutenant-Governor Merriam stepped in and proposed a joint legislative committee to make a thorough-going study of the subject. Meanwhile Governor Rolph got busy and named his unemployment commission authorized by the legislature.

Both men are very sincere in their efforts. Wherever he goes Rolph speaks to the people on water and unemployment. Merriam filling speaking engagements all over the state discusses unemployment and water. Make no mistake it's a forerunner of what will probably be the hottest gubernatorial campaign California has ever seen.

Rumor has it in Sacramento that Fred E. Stewart popular Alameda member of the state board of equalization has passed up the offer to run for congress in the new district created in his county. Stewart is carefully considering the proposal to run for lieutenant-governor on the Merriam ticket in 1934, it is said

Whether B. B. Meek, director of public works during the administration of Governor C. C. Young, will get into the free-for-all race for governor in 1934 is problematical. Meek is regarded as one of the strongest Progressive Republicans in California, and would doubtless be the standard-bearer if that branch of the party feels it is their turn to offer a candidate.

Any doubt as to whether Russell Bevans would be retained as chief of the state division of motor vehicle registration was removed this week when Theodore Roche, soon to become director of motor vehicles, declared that Bevans would make an "admirable and loyal official." Bevans has been holding the post on a temporary baises, but such a strong showing has been made in his behalf it is considered very likely the appointment will be made permanent.

Validity of the act creating the state unemployment commission and appropriating $50,000 for its operation was upheld in an opinion by Attorney General U. S. Webb to State Controller Ray L. Riley. Its constitutionality had been questioned because it was passed as an emergency measure before the governor's budget. This, however, did not render the act inoperative, Webb held.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 24—(UP)—Charges that motion picture stars and executives receive excessive salaries for which the public must eventually pay in high picture rentals struck sparks in Hollywood—as might be expected.

Motion picture exhibitors from all parts of the United States met in New York and protested against the high rentals. They said some very unkind things about $1,000 to $3,000 per week paid "minor executives" and the $30,000 Warner Brthers-First National gives Connie Bennett every week that she works before a camera.

The Association of Motion Picture Producers rode to the rescue of the beleagured Hollywood folk with a red hot statement.

"Motion picture studios are not paying actors more than they are worth," the statement said. "While it is true that some stars are receiving sums out of proportion in the layman's mind, an actor who has a box office attraction worth millions, is virtually priceless.

"The charge that no director is worth $2,500 a week who uses 100,000 feet of film to obtain 7,000 for a finished picture—why that is a silly assertion. D. W. Griffith in making tis 'Birth of a Nation' in 1915, when dollars and cents were more important than art, used barrels and barrels of film. The picture is still bringing in returns to the producers 15 years after its first showing."

The association statement admitted that directors who hold down production costs and still make excellent pictures are scarce. When a director finds one up shoots the wage scale for said director. So it almost seems that the things robs Peter to pay Paul.

Meanwhile scores of "minor executives" and quite a few stars are hoping the bosses don't take seriously this talk about salary slashing. Foreign-make cars and beach and mountain homes cost money and the stars must live.

MENLO PARK

The city council held a special session Tuesday. All members were present.

The matter of fixing and confirming the assessment for work done on Pine street and other streets and avenues in the neighborhood was taken up and discussed. No further protests were presented whereupon a resolution was unanimously adopted overruling all protests and confirming the assessment against the property upon which the improvements were made. The land owners will have thirty days to pay or else the assessment will go to bonds and be paid annually, together with interest at seven per cent per annum.

The bid offered at the last meeting by the Valley Paving and Construction Company amounting to $18,214.99 for improvements on Live Oak avenue was taken up and awarded to the bidder. It was laid over for the reason that there was only one bid and the council thought the matter should be investigated. The property owners were present and asked that the award be made. Blake and Mr. Tupper, who live on the street, thought the estimate was a fair one and urged the letting of the contract.

The same concern also made an estimate at the last meeting to pave Curtis and Doyle streets for $5,793.23. By resolution the company was awarded the contract.

Mrs. Catherine Derry made application for the appointment as policewoman for the police department. She said she had plenty of time to devote to the duties of the position and would ask no compensation for the work. City Attorney Whitworth, to whom the matter of establishing flash lights at the Oak Grove railroad crossing, reported that he had met with the railroad authorities last Friday, when the demonstration of the proposed signal was made. He explained the working of the signals and approved them. Blake thought the ringing of the bells would practically put the two hotel adjoining the crossing out of business and didnt think it proper. Action on the report was continued to next Tuesday night.

The city attorney brought up the matter of the gas tax to improve Oak Grove avenue from Laurel street to the Middlefield road. He saw Supervisor Poole who said the budget was already fixed and that nothing could be done this year, but he hoped to be able to do something in 1932.

Mrs. Minnie Corbett McMonagle of Menlo Park, sister of Mrs. Moody, mother-in-law of Helen Wills Moody, passed away in Switzerland on Sunday last, according to a cablegram received by Mrs. Moody.

A. Mosco, who formerly conducted the James Artino barber shop in the Brown building, was here during the week saying farewell to his many friends before sailing on an around-the-world trip on a ship on which he has the concession for barbering. He left yesterday on his long journey.

Tom Furman, Jr., sailed from Shanghai last Thursday on the Golden Peak on a return trip to San Francisco. Young Furman is a cadet on the American-Hawaiian Steamship line. He is a son of Thomas Furman, ex-chief of police of this city.

The city council is to be commended for its selection of Thomas J. Kearney as an officer of the police department. He is a splendid young man possessing a good poise, has ability, mentally alert and physically fit to fill the position with credit to himself and the council that appointed him to the office of trust. Mr. Kearney is a native of Menlo Park and the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kearney of this city.

Sequoia Students Planning Dramatics

Dramatic activities of Sequoia Union high school for October are featuring "The Show-Off," a three-act comedy by George Kelley, to be presented October 31, and "The Valiant," a tragedy in one act to be given at an assembly or special performance under the direction of Claude van Patten, dramatic coach.

In the "Show-Off" the plot is centered around Audrey Piper, an individual with an inflated ego. The humor of the comedy is furnished by Mrs. Fisher with her sarcastic thrusts at Audrey. The biggest mistake Audrey makes turns out to be a godsend to the Fisher family.

"The Valiant" is a prison story in which the prisoner keeps silent at the cost of his life to protect his loved one. Milton Abbott will play the leading role, the young prisoner, while the rest of the east is composed of Henry Kalteran, warden; Arthur Otterstad, jailer; Cornelius Medveczky, attendant; Donald Seely, priest; either Betty Bright or Dorothy Hunt will take the part of the girl.

Stanford Team Facing Test in Olympic Game

Winged "O" Team Said To Have Strong Aggregation In Passing Attack

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 24.—Stanford's untried football team meets a real test here Saturday when it tangles with the powerful Olympic Club eleven in what appears to be an even game.

"Pop" Warner, who has seen the clubmen in action believes that the outcome of the contest is a toss-up and has indicated that he will not be greatly surprised if his boys find themselves on the short end of the score. The Winged "O" has displayed a staunch defense and a dangerous offense in its victories over West Coast Army and the Marines. The Indian coaches are particularly concerned about the lateral passing attack of Coach Percy Locey's charges.

The Cardinal attack which appeared to have plenty of versatility in a 46-0 victory over West Coast Army must function more smoothly and display more punch to puncture the Olympic Club defense. A study of past games between the Winged "O" and redskins shows that practically all of the club victories have been due to defense, rather than offense.

Warner is pushing his charges hard and the Cardinal machine should be prepared to put up a better game this week than last. Fundamentals and signal drill have have taken up most of the time with an occasional scrimmage session thrown in. The Indian mentor has been paying a great deal of attention to kicking this week, as his men showed poorly in this department against the Jarheads.

In all probability, the redskins will open against the Olympians with the same lineup which faced Army. This means that Captain Harry Hillman, quarterback, and Phil Moffatt, star left halfback, will see Phil Baker and Gordy Campbell performing in their respective places. "Pop" will take no chances with this pair, prefering to give their injuries another week or two to mend. However, Hillman and Moffatt will doubtless be given an opportunity to get into the fray for a short time as they did last Saturday, even though they do not start.

The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 and the Stanford Freshmen meet San Francisco State Teachers College in a preliminary at 12 o'clock.

Brick Halts Bandit Suspect

LINCLN, Neb., (UP) — Eddie Moore, negro suspect in a filling station robbery, had outrun his pursuers. Jerome Neill picked up a brick and threw it. Moore was knocked unconscious, and captured.

Stanford Grid News Notes

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 24 — Ernie Nevers, former All-American fullback and captain of the 1925 Stanford grid eleven, is the greatest football player of all time, in the opinion of Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Indian coach.

Warner was selected as one of a jury of twelve men, prominent in football all over the United States to determine the outstanding football star of them all. C. William Duncan, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, is conducting the survey and Warner's ballot was forwarded today. Second, third, fourth and fifth chaices are included. A first choice counts five points; second, four; third, three; fourth, two; and fifth, one.

Following are the Cardinal coach's nominations for the other places: Second, Jim Thorpe, halfback, Carlisle; third, Heffelfinger, guard, Yale; fourth, Willie Heston, halfback, Michigan; fifth, Frank Hinkey, end, Yale.

Warners says of Nevers, in comment accompanying the ballot, "Ernie Nevers played his position by far the best of any player I ever saw. He had a wonderful physique—was big and powerful and yet very active. Nevers was the mental type every coach likes to have on his football team. He was a fine punter, a fine forward passer, a great line plunger, and a marvel on defense Ernie Nevers was a football player without a fault."

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 24—Having opened their season with a surprising 37-0 win over Marin Junior College, Jimmy Bradshaw's Stanford freshmen tackle San Francisco State Teachers College here Saturday at twelve o'clock in a preliminary to the Stanford varsity-Olmypic Club contest.

The papooses made a remarkable showing against Marin in view of the fact that they had been through but four days of practice. However, Bradshaw was not entirely satisfied and has been working his squad hard this week.

Charlie Seaver, nationally known amateur golf star, reported for practice this week and will aid in solving one of Bradshaw's toughest problems—the quarterback and fullback positions. Seaver played these positions in spring practice and is expected to land a regular berth without much difficulty.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 24—Fifty yard line seats on the Minnesota side are now on public sale, in San Francisco, Oakland, and on the peninsula, for the Minnesota-Stanford football game in the Cardinal bowl, Saturday, October 10, according to an announcement by Alfred R. Masters, general manager of the Stanford Board of Athletic Control.

Many Big League Manager Changes Are Impending

The 1931 major league season will end on Sunday and there are several managers who are quite likely to be missing when the teams head south next spring.

It seems certain that "Uncle" Wilbert Robinson is doomed as manager of the Brooklyn Robins, but they have been trying to get Robbie out for many years and haven't succeeded yet. Public opinion, however, appears to have turned against him and it will take a miracle for him to get a contract for 1932 season. When the Robins got off to a slow start this season thousands of fans signed a petition asking Robinson's removal but just about that time the club started a winning streak and Robbie was once more back in the good graces of the fans. Since then, however, the Robins have hit the dumps again.

Max Carey, former Pittsburgh and Brooklyn outfielder, has been mentioned several times as the probable successor to Robinson.

The status of the 16 major league managers appears to be divided into three classes as follows:

Fixtures

Connie Mack	Athletics
John J. McGraw	Giants
Rogers Hornsby	Cubs
Gabby Street	Cardinals
Joe McCarthy	Yankees
Roger Peckinpaugh	Cleveland
William McKechnie	Braves

Reasonably Certain

Walter Johnson	Washington
Bill Killifer	Washington
Shano Collins	Red Sox
Burt Shotton	Phillies
Donie Bush	White Sox

Doubtful

Wilbert Robinson	Brooklyn
Bucky Harris	Detroit
Jewel Ens	Pittsburgh
Dan Howley	Cincinnati

Despite his ups and downs with the Cubs, Rogers Hornsby will manage the team again next season at a salary said to be $40,000. William Wrigley, who signs the pay checks, has implicit faith in Hornsby's ability to develop a winner.

Once during the season it seemed that Donie Bush would re-sign as manager of the White Sox, but later developments indicate that he will stay at least another year.

Although President Frank Navin has said that he doesn't blame Bucky Harris for the poor showing of the Detroit Tigers, Harris may step down of his own accord.

Handicapped by poor material, Dan Howley hasn't been able to make any progress with the Reds, and he also may relinquish the post at his own choice.

Pigeons Race From Roseville

The Redwood City Racing Pigeon Club held its second race for this season last Sunday, when 85 birds from local lofts were released from Roseville, an air-line distance of 101 miles.

The winner of the contest was Miss Roberta Walker, whose entry made a flying velocity of 1156.136 yards per minute. The other winners in the order of their time were: G. Walker, 1153.768; D. Kirk, 1153.768; V. Doppee, 1145.23 and 1144.321; A. Doppee, Jr., 1144.321 and 1142.002; Dave Kirk, 1140.347; A. Doppee, Sr., 1136.909; J. Morretto, 984.482 and 930.638.

The next pigeon race will be flown from Colfax, an airline distance of 131 miles and will be held next Sunday.

Tanforan Notes

Horses are galloping at Tanforan. The first of the shipments for the fall meeting at the popular course arrived early in the week. Trainers lost no time in getting their runners out on the oval to test their speed.

Stuart Polk, conditioner of many high class thoroughbreds and known from one end of the country to the other as a developer of riding talent, had the distinction of unloading the first carload for the big session. His string came from San Diego.

Tonto Rock, winner of the San Mateo Handicap last fall at Tanforan has had a long rest at Imperial Beach and indications are he will be at the height of his form when the bugle calls the horses to the post on the first day of the coming period of racing, Friday, November 6th

The San Mateo was at the gruelling distance of one mile and one furlong last year and in winning it Tonto Rock proved himself to be a real stayer At the approaching session it is expected the son of Trap Rock will be made eligible to the stakes at one mile and a sixteenth and also for the California Handicap which is at one mile and a furlong

In increasing the number of stakes the Pacific Coast Breeders Association has changed the San Mateo from a gallop of nine furlongs for all ages to a race for two year olds at six furlongs

Fred Almy, stakes winner on important courses, was in the Polk consignment, as was La Belotte, Backbone and a half dozen other fast ones

Next week the first of the eastern contingent may be expected. Trainer H. W. (Frisco) Hoag of the John W Marchbank establishments, trainer Al Jones of the Bill Bee Stable and others are planning to leave Chicago prior to the wind-up at Lincoln Fields. Some fleet ones are coming in those strings. Do Swasey, Satin Spar, Givanna, Chazzan, Sun's Son and runners of that caliber promise to make things hum at Tanforan.

Following the wind-up at Del Monte in the early part of October Elmer O'Connell will ship the Agua Caliente Summer Derby winner "Foolhardy" and others to Tanforan. The well-known breeder has asked for fifteen stalls. His horses are at Del Monte at present.

J. H. Edwards who led the winning owner's list at Agua Caliente in the summer, has sent in a request for fifteen stalls at Tanforan. His gallopers are at Fairmount Park, with the exception of a few turned out at San Ysidro.

Tracey Reno, who seems to be a real comer among the jockeys, will be at Tanforan. He is with J. H. Edwards.

Running Library For California Is No Sinecure

400,000 Books Distributed by State Library Serving 5 Million People

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24—Spending $350,000 every two years should be easy.

But when the task includes the distribution of 400,000 volumes of non-fiction and seeing that 5,000,000 Californians get all they want to read it begins to look like hard work.

Anyway, that's part of the job of Miss Mabel R. Gillis handles as state librarian. Incidentally California's is the largest library organization with a woman as its chief.

Under the present unified system, 48 county and 140 city libraries now operate in co-operation with the state library. The organization has provided one of the most complete state historical collections, in the county, and includes one of the finest collections of books for the blind.

"While there are 50,000,000 people in the United States who do not have library service, there are only 3 per cent in California without this service," Miss Gillis claims. "With one or two exceptions this is the lowest percentage in the country."

Excluding fiction, for there is none on the shelves of the state library unless it contains accurate historical information unobtainable elsewhere, the library feels the reading trend much as any other less large organization.

The present demand is for books on Africa, Miss Gillis claims, the biographical and psychological material holding the same favored place with the reading public as they have for the last several years.

As head of so large a library system, Miss Gillis is really responsible for the realization of the dreams of her father, the late James L. Gillis, who became state librarian in 1899 and started the foundation for the present state-wide organization.

Better Conditions For Women Workers Seen from Reoort

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24—(UP)—Working conditions and wages for women and minor children are improving gradually.

Based on a survey made recently by the state division of industrial welfare, a report to Governor Rolph shows that the minimum wage requirement of $16 a week does not represent the maximum in mercantile, laundry and dry-cleaning establishments.

Under the heading "$17 and over" the data shows 74.6 per cent of these employees in 1929, and 75.5 per cent more than a year later.

While wage conditions may be improving, the report shows that fewer women and children are being employed on full time, although more establishments are using this kind of labor than ever before.

The report revealed that 46,727 such workers are being employed, a decrease of 3.7 per cent, while the number of firms hiring women and children increased 7.4 per cent, for a total of 5,798 establishments.

"The entire mercantile industry shows an increase in the number of part-time workers, special workers and errand boys amounting to approximately 10.2 per cent," the report said.

"Combining both the part-time and full-time establishments and women and minor workers, the division of industrial welfare enforces the minimum wage law in 6,460 mercantile firms in the state, employing 55,062 women and minors."

The report further points out that "in contrast to the general mercantile industry" the five-and-ten-cent and limited price stores show more women and children working full time. The increase amounts to 3.3 per cent.

From the standpoint of wages in this group 24 per cent are in the $17 and over" class while 62.5 per cent come under the "$16 only" division.

Back wages collected by the state division total $1,538.02 during July, the report stated, with 89 complaints registered during the month.

COUNTRY FAIR STILL POPULAR

BOSTON, (UP)—Radio the automobile and other devices that offer diversion to modern life apparently have robbed the old country fair of none of its popularity. A survey shows that no less than 212 such fairs will be held in New England this fall—96 of them in densely-populated Massachusetts.

Committee Named to Aid Employment of Teachers in the State

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 24.—(UP)—A plea for educators of San Mateo county to aid in the problem of professional and teacher unemployment was made today by Vierling Kersey, state director of education.

"It is estimated that there are at least 3,500 properly qualified teachers in California who are unemployed at the present time," Kersey stated.

"These teachers are obligated to observe the ethics of their profession seeking employment and as a result they are not experienced in meeting the rigorous competition caused by the present conditions of oversupply in their profession."

In an attempt to provide immediate relief in the present situation and "permanent remedy for these undesirable conditions, Kersey appointed the following committees to study the question:

Northern California—O. S. Hubbard, Fresno city superintendent of schools; J. M. Gwinn, San Francisco city superintendent of schools; W. E. Givens, Oakland city superintendent of schools; L. W. Smith, Berkeley city superintendent of schools; W. G. Paden, Alameda city superintendent of schools; Walter T. Helms, Richmond city superintendent of schools; the following county superintendents of schools, W. H. Hanlon, Contra Costa county; J. B. Davidson, Marin county; Miss Pensy J. Gridley, manager division of placement, teachers association; Mrs. May L. Cheney, appointment secretary, University of California, Berkeley; Dr. A. C. Roberts, president San Francisco state teachers college.

Southern California—L. E. Chenoweth, Bakersfield; Walter Hepner, San Diego; Frank A. Bouelle, Los Angeles; John Sexon, Pasadena; Melrowe Martin, Ventura; W. L. Stephens, Long Beach; Percy R. David, Santa Ana, and Paul E. Stewart, Santa Barbara, all city school superintendents; A. R. Clifton, Los Angeles county Ray Adkinson, Orange county; E. E. Smith, Riverside county Robert L. Darsie, dean, University of California, Los Angeles.

Both groups will be assisted by Miss Helen Hefferman, Mrs. Evelyn Clement, Sam H. Cohn and Nicholas Ricciardi of the state department of education.

The committee will be charged with determining policies dealing with the elimination of multiple assignments of teachers, the possible discontinuance of emergency credentials, part-time employment and methods to be used in placing teachers in work other than that of education. The committee will be expected to submit a report at the school superintendents' convention opening in Riverside October 5.

FAMED LLOYDS STARTED IN OLD COFFEE HOUSE

LONDON Sept. 24—(UP)—A1 at Lloyds was introduced in 1775 to describe a ship in the highest class both as regards build and equipment. When a Chicago bank official embezzled $400,000, Lloyds paid up without turning a hair. It is reputed to be the greatest insurance concern in the world.

It started business in a coffee house in Lombard street which was frequented by ship's captains and merchantmen, purely for the purpose of marine insurance. Today it the recognized authority for shipping, its Shipping List being the oldest newspaper in London. In addition to marine insurance it will now undertake all kinds of risks from the result of a lawsuit to the birth of twins.

As an example of its stability, when H. M. S. Lutine sank in 1799 with a cargo of gold, she was insured for a million sterling. The money was paid up within a week.

Introducing Ellsworth Vines, new national tennis champion, upon his arrival back home in Pasadena, Cal., after winning the title on eastern courts. Vines, a sophomore at University of Southern California, was met at the train by fellow students, who bore him home on their shoulders at the head of a long procession. Also on hand to greet the new champ was his best girl, Verle Lowe. Which probably accounts in a good measure for the big smile he wears in this picture.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

WOODSIDE

Miss Celia Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Bishop, will be married on Saturday at the home of her parents here to Lionel Bayley King. The Bishop home is one of the show places of Woodside and should prove a perfect setting for the ceremony.

The deer hunters reported last week as starting for the northern part of the state in search of game have all returned with visible evidence to their marksmanship. The finest buck seen in these parts for many years was brought back by Peter Duzanica and John Volpiano.

Mrs. D. B. Ralston of Woodside has been substituting as teacher at La Honda school for the past two weeks.

The Portola Social club will hold a card party on the evening of October 2nd. The object of this party is to raise funds for maintaining the dental clinic at the Portola school which community service for the past two years has been financed by the Portola social club. Refreshments will be served and dancing will follow the cards.

The first session of the dental clinic at the Woodside school was held on Tuesday morning when twenty of the pupils had their teeth examined and cleaned. Dr. McMills and Miss Florence Boddy, the school nurse, were in charge.

The work of renovating the Woodside hotel has gone forward more rapidly than was expected and it is now hoped to open the inn on Saturday of this week. A large Palo Alto organization has engaged the inn for a banquet on Monday night.

Nine members of the Woodside Parent-Teachers Association crossed the mountains on Thursday to attend the meeting of the 17th district organization at Pescadero.

Jack Shapiro and family who have been touring Southern California, returned to their home on Tuesday.

Mrs. J. A. Folger and her daughter, Mrs. Donshoe, have been spending a week at Santa Barbara.

Bounties Paid on Game Pests

HARRISBURG, Pa., (UP)—Bounties were paid on 1,065 weasels, 56 gray foxes and a wildcat killed by Pennsylvanians aiding in exterminating game pests during July, 1931. The bounties paid provided welcome additions to the claimants' incomes.

League Eyes German Four Power Plan

Experts Study Effort to Join France, Britain and Italy

GENEVA, Sept. 24—(UP)—League of Nations circles are studying the new German efforts for a four power non-aggression pact with Britain, France and Italy, with a possible extension later to Soviet Russia.

In the past the League has taken a very broad point of view relative to all efforts for the maintenance of peace.

Its theory has been that as the principal object of the League is peace, the League welcomes all efforts and organizations that contribute to that end.

Unfortunately, since the original formulation of this policy, the League has had some deceptions in the matter.

It has seen certain combinations that were regarded as sure guarantees of peace dissipate, and in the second place, it has seen the League itself, which has withstood all tests now for 12 years, often ruthlessly disregarded when it considers it might have given valuable service.

The proposed German pact would mark a tendency to return to the pre-war system of alliances and agreements, as against the League idea of world-wide international collaboration of every nation.

As indicated by the German financial conversations of the past summer, the tendency of such a four power pact would be for the prime and foreign ministers to conduct their different capitals, thus eliminating Geneva almost entirely as the "world capital."

Nevertheless, the League is not losing sleep. Instead, it is banking on the fact that up to the present time all outside efforts for peace organization, disarmament agreements for nations mostly have come to naught, while the League still continues.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Sept. 24—(UP)—A French woman expresses her opinion of the threatened Empire mode in the following words: "It is theatrical and not in accord with present-day life. I am a Parisian and I do not understand how it will be possible for a woman to wear flounces or great wide skirts such as were seen in the days of the Second Empire.

"Those kind of things fitted well in an old barouche with several servants to extend every assistance to milady, but not in a 90 horsepower limousine. The frock would be crushed before it was five minutes old in the present rush and crush of things.

"However I think that the harking back to the old way of dressing will accomplish something. It is bound to generate ideas and that after all is how we develop style."

I quote this parisienne because she expresses the very general view held by her feminine countrymen. To get a happy mdium in all things we have to have two extremes. These extremes today are the ultra conservatisms shown in sports frocks and suits, and the equally ultra fanaticisms shown in evening gowns with bustles, puff sleeves of huge dimensions, hooped skirts and ruffles that seem not to know when or where to stop.

Week at the State Capital

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO Cal., Sept. 24 — (UP)—The welfare of California teachers and pupils was the subject of two special conferences held here this week by state officials.

At a meeting of Northern California educators called by Vierling Kersey, director of education, for the purpose of alleviating the teachers' unemployment problem, a program was adopted whereby more strict requirements will be enforced relative to the employment of new teachers from without the state. A similar meeting in Southern California will be held September 26 at Los Angeles.

Attended by representatives of the California highway patrol, the department of industrial relations, state railroad commission, department of motor vehicles and department of education, a meeting was held to inaugurate a campaign to promote safer transportation of school children.

As an initial step the conference approved a plan to provide more strict inspection of school bus equipment and more exacting driving tests for operators.

California had a total of 441 mines and quarries in operation in 1929 according to a federal report filed with the state department of natural resources.

Employing a total of 1,118 salaried officers and 8,048 wage earners, the mines and quarries produced an output valued at $38,645,889, the report stated.

California's seventy-seventh annual state fair drew an attendance of 322,468, according to official figures submitted to the department of finance by fair officials.

The previous attendance record for an eight-day fair was 275,295, made in 1923. The greatest crowd ever to attend a state fair in California was in 1929 when the 10-day Diamond Jubilee exposition drew 431,012 persons.

With the refusal of State Controller Ray L. Riley to pay a $2,400 bill of school texts ordered by the state board of education from an eastern publisher despite the ruling of the attorney general that the purchase was illegal, a court "battle royal" has been assured.

Fighting for state-printed books, organized labor is attempting to make the battle statewide by having the state federation take action against the asserted eastern "book trust."

Attorney General U. S. Webb this week ruled that the state park commission cannot legally purchase the Buttonwillow game preserve in Kern county for the preservation of tule elk, because of irrigation assessments pending against the land.

The 1931 legislature passed a $35,000 appropriation for the purchase of the preserve.

Centenarian Sees First Movie

ELKO, Nev., (UP)—Jimmy Mulligan, a 105-year-old veteran of the county farm here, saw his first movie recently when a traveling troupe gave an exhibition to inmates. He had seen electricity, steam engines, autos, phonographs, wireless, radio and many other modern conveniences come into use, and his memory was clear on each one of them. The movies gave him a big "kick," he said.

U. S. Year Book Gives Story of Depression

Charts and Diagrams in Government Publication Trace Trend

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—(UP)—The history of the depression for future generations to ponder, with charts and diagrams and detailed analyses to satisfy the most exacting, is contained in a book prepared by the Commerce Department and published today.

Only a few bright spots light up the otherwise dark story told in the 696 pages, which carries this, as every year, the prosaic title "Commerce Year Book." It is an annual publication and tells, this year, the developments of the depression during 1930.

It is a facts and figures book, a mine of information for the economist and statistician. Nowhere in its pages is there a mention of one of the most controversial issues of the depression period, the tariff, nor does it deal with unemployment except as a phase of the general situation.

Series of Charts

In a series of charts and lenghty explanation of them, the book shows the downward trend in business and industry, in foreign trade, in employment and wages, in agriculture, and in price movements.

The opening sentence sums up well the trying experience through which this country and the world has passed.

"The recession in business activity which commenced in the latter part of 1929 developed into a world depression of major proportions by the latter part of 1930, accompanied by the accumulation of large stocks of raw materials throughout the world, extensive price declines, curtailment of industrial operations and growing unemployment, unsettled political conditions in many foreign countries, the severe drought in the United States, the decline in the price of silver, and other similar developments," it says in a nutshell.

Proof of Optimism

The book gives proof that the optimism expressed in the early months of 1930 by President Hoover and leading business men that the depression then was about to end was well-founded in developments at that time.

In the case of many downward trends, the book cites figures to show that the trend reached lower depths in the short 1921 depression. The charts, sprinkled throughout the book almost uniformly, show a continually descending line.

A series of excerpts best show in thumb-nail form, the outline of the depression.

Pacific Coast To Get Eight New Vessels

Construction Underway Totaling $46,000,000 for Western Trips

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24—(UP)—Passengers with Pacific Coast points of destination, or embarkation, will have the choice of eight new vessels, costing $46,000,000, for their travel by the end of 1932 or early in 1933, local shipping companies have announced.

The new ships, which will include some of the fastest and most luxurious of the American merchant marine, are all under construction, or keel laying ceremonies will be held for them in the near future.

First of the new liners to make its appearance will be the President Coolidge, $8,000,000 sister ship of the President Hoover, which recently completed its maiden voyage to the coast. The vessels are turbo-electric powered, 653 feet long, of 33,000 tons displacement, and have accommodations for 1,260 passengers.

The Mariposa and the Monterey, each costing $7,500,000, will make their maiden voyages to the coast early next year. They will enter the Australian service.

A sister ship to this pair, the Lurline, will be started soon, and is expected to make its first voyage late next year.

Three vessels, costing $3,500,000 each, are to be built for passenger and fruit cargo service in the United Fruit Co. run. The Segovia and Talamanca will begin their service next spring while the third vessel will be ready some time in the fall, officials of the concern have announced.

Two of the four new Panama Mail liners being constructed for inter-costal service will be put in service in the fall of 1932. These will cost $4,250,000 each.

Alien Report Shows Exodus

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24—(UP)—With 40 per cent more aliens leaving San Francisco than arriving, figures at Angel Island immigration headquarters up to September 1 showed a complete reversal of the immigration tide this year.

Departing foreigners totaled 6,620 up to September 1, whereas entries numbered only 4,732, according to J. R. Schaduel, Angel Island statistician.

Normally, incoming aliens exceed those leaving the country through this port by 100 to 300, Schaduel said. Now each month shows just the opposite balance.

San Francisco, however, showed not quite so heavy an exodus as for the United States as a whole. In July seven aliens left the United States for every three entering, Washington figures disclosed, but in San Francisco the ratio was six to four.

Although deportation is the highest in the nation's history, departures from here were mostly voluntary.

Orientals make up a majority of the aliens checked in and out by the local office of the immigration service.

How Much to Move Dead Cow?

READING Cal., (UP)—What is it worth to move a dead cow out of a river? Five dollars said Shasta county. Twenty-five dollars, said Ernest Mueller and Leonard Markham, filing suit in small claims court against the county. The dispute arose when Coroner Souza said his duty did not extend to removing dead cows, and Dr. Saylor, county health officer, employed Mueller and Markham to do the job, without fixing the rate of pay.

The work which has been done on the Hoover dam was described at the regular meeting of the Redwood City Exchange Club this week by Harold Anderson, civil engineer of Hilsborough, who has been engaged in engineering work on the big dam project for the government. Anderson told in an interesting manner of the construction details of the big project and of what is still to be accomplished.

The chairman of the meeting was Sydney Moore, one of the proprietors of the Nipa Hut. Will Moulthrop, assistant to the chief engineer of the Southern Pacific, and general chairman of the Kiku Matsuri committee, gave a short talk on the plans for Redwood City's chrysanthemum festival. Roy Hohberger, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and author of the official Kiku Matsuri song, sang the song for the members of the Exchange club. The club has purchased two tickets for the Kiku Matsuri festival, "A Night in Old Japan," for each of the members.

Club Hears Talk On United States Doctrine in S. A.

Change of Attitude Toward Latin Republics Basis For Address

A talk on the Carribean countries, with particular reference to the United States policy in these countries was given before the Redwood City Kiwanis club Wednesday by Dr. Frank Stangler, professor of political science at the San Mateo junior college.

Prof. Stangler compared the Roosevelt interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine with the original intent of that policy, and explained the Clark Memorandum issued by the present administration, which practically returns the Monroe Doctrine to its original form, that is a policy with regard to intervention in South and Central American affairs by countries outside of these continents, and not implying intervention in the internal affairs of the various republics of this continent. Prof. Stangler characterized President Hoover's attitude in the Nicaragua situation, not as a "backing down" on the part of the United States as it had been stated in some papers, but as being in line with the original intent of the Monroe Doctrine.

The chairman of the meeting Wednesday was Dr. H. A. Clattenburg. An election was held at this meeting for 20 candidates for election next Wednesday to the ten positions as director of the local club.

A suit filed in the superior court of this county this week names James A. Bacigalupi, former head of the Bank of America, and chauffeur, Frank C. Hanson, defendants in a damage action for $26,000. The plaintiffs in the action are Currance's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlen D. Currence.
